

SELF-STYLED

Tees with attitude

You'll look cooler than the band in one of these fun picks.

CLASSIC CUTIE
If you want your MTV... shirt! $30; Junk Food Clothing.com

JOCK STITCH
Pair with jorts and sneakers, and go find a soccer game. $20; Soffe.com

SO CHILL Nice for post-beach with cutoffs, Birks and a brew. $69; AviatorNation.com

TOUGH LOVE
This muscle tee will spark conversations at barbecues. Rebel Yell, $53; HarveyNichols.com

PUNK OUT It's fierce with black skinnies. Calling Joey Ramone! Junk Food Originals, $40; Junk FoodClothing.com

Ciara works it in a flirty T-shirt and short-shorts.

Do-good music

Support causes. Deciding on your next concert? Visit TicketsForCharity.com. A portion of all proceeds goes to nonprofits chosen by the artists.

Give troops a lift. Ship used CDs (make sure they're in decent condition) to a service member; email tunes4thetroops@hotmail.com for a matchup.

Comfort pups. RescueAnimalMP3.org donates mellow music to shelters. Two paws up! —Robin Hillmantel

A bazillion new songs

These high-tech streaming services give you crazy access to music. Caution: highly addictive. —Ashley Mateo

SPOTIFY It has some 13 million songs (!!!) you can stream from a database; sync playlists to hear them offline or on your phone. $10/month, or free, if you're willing to sit through an ad about every 20 minutes

GOOGLE PLAY Upload up to 20,000 songs from your library onto the cloud, then listen online or through Google Play's Android app. The service is free, and you can buy new tunes from Music on Google Play (about $1 each).

RDIO Kind of like Twitter for tunes: Follow pals, music magazines, record labels and bands to see what they're loving, and share your own song obsessions, too. You can stream playlists and albums. $10/month for unlimited use

ITUNES MATCH This automatically links songs on your computer with iCloud. Like Google Play, it frees up major storage space. Got new tunes? All your devices will automatically sync. $25/year